Lady Devayana - The Birth of OakSpring: a View from 25 Years

To begin at the beginning, I need to begin several years before the beginning.

On the afternoon of Beltane, 1995, L Sinatana and I were walking across the back lawn at the old Ravenwood House on Rainbow Drive in Decatur, when out of the blue she asked me to assume the title of High Priestess of Ravenwood Church of the Old Religion upon her 'retirement,' which was connected to her move to the Pacific coast. In circle at Hallows of that year, she turned the group over to Lord Starhawk, at which time he asked me to serve as his consort.

When Starhawk fell apart in April of 1998, L Colin, never a member of either Ravenwood or OakSpring but a valued counselor to both, and L Ramona encouraged me to rally the other Thirds and press on. We met with L Ziggy and L Mikiel and determined that under our direction and with major changes we could keep the Church going. We later asked L Twilight and L Derwdrych, brand new Thirds at the time, to join us, and we formed the Elder Group, which also included L Hermes. We asked Second Degree L Rhea Artemis (later our first OakSpring Third) to sit in and keep records of our meetings.

While retaining the Ravenwood Craft traditions of teaching and ritual, the Elder Group set out to reform completely Ravenwood's operational policies and procedures. Early on we reached an agreement with L Sintana that she would advise and guide our activities but that we would be responsible for the day-to-day operation of the Church. This agreement did not last, and the governing Elders found ourselves being second guessed, criticized, and undermined by Sintana on every level and at every opportunity, publicly and privately, both to our faces and behind our backs. As we struggled to keep Ravenwood running smoothly and the general membership protected from the strife between us and Sinatana, it became apparent that the only recourse was for the Elders to request to hive, which we did.

L Galadriel and L Athanor of Grove of the Unicorn agreed to guide us through the hiving process and help us create our new coven. So that everyone could make an unbiased decision about whether they wanted to stay with Ravenwood or leave to form OakSpring, the ground rule set was a full month of contemplation for the membership in which no leader from either side could attempt to influence anyone in any way. While the Elder Group did comply, Sintana did not. She spent her time and energy attempting to destroy not only the credibility but also the reputations of everyone in the Elder Group. Although the Elder Group had tried to protect the Ravenwood membership from Sintana's meanness over the years, because Sintana had fostered a culture of favoritism and gossip, some of the Ravenwood Seconds, following her lead, also employed innuendo and outright lies to undermine a fair and unbiased split.

Late in the course of the negotiations, Sintana threatened to refuse to allow us to hive but was finally convinced to allow us to 'separate with blessing,' an unexpected twist that was in actuality a true blessing. The result, of course, was the subsequent complete split from Ravenwood in an unprecedented departure by all the Thirds, Firsts, and a single Second and the formation of OakSpring.

Starhawk's breakdown and the creation of the Elder Group, leading to the total separation from Ravenwood; the years trying to work with Sintana to keep Ravenwood going properly; the crafting of a brand-new coven determined to be a place of ownership, honesty, and integrity; and the intensity and sheer nastiness of the month prior to the separation ritual wore us all to a shred.

In a final effort to make things as difficult for us as possible, Ravenwood moved the planned 'Parting Ceremony' from the weekend before to Saturday, April 29, 2000, hoping to thwart our plans that same evening for our first ritual as a newly formed stand-alone coven. Driving away from the Rainbow Drive house after we were cut out of the Ravenwood circle was one of the most liberating moments of my spiritual life, and the night after we walked out of the Ravenwood circle on Saturday, OakSpring celebrated its first Sabbat, Beltane 2000, on Sunday, April 30, in my backyard.

I was terribly anxious about producing our first Sabbat, a Beltane yet, in my tiny Decatur backyard and house 24 hours after the all-consuming split. What I did not anticipate was the fun we all had that afternoon frantically preparing for the ritual and the wonderful and truly magical evening that followed. I

Folks showed up early in droves to get the yard and house ready. L Dorian (also a refugee from Sintana's spitefulness) and L Usel from Dorian's group the Green Chapel came with their maypole for us to use. People spent the day sorting and arranging flowers, erecting the Maypole, figuring out what spot in my back yard would be the best place for the circle, preparing circle space, setting up our OakSpring ritual altar for the first time, getting the inside of the house ready for the feast and party afterward, and, well, all the Beltane drill. It was a fabulously fun day.

The ritual, performed by L Twilight and L Drew, was exquisite. The after party was full of music and laughter and talk. Toward the end of the evening, L Mikiel stood on my tiny back porch and offered a beautiful toast to the success of our baby coven.

Six months later, L Mikiel accepted the OakSpring sword from me and became our coven's first High Priest.

Although none of us knew it at the time, the first Beltane marked the beginning of our successful beyond-our-wildest-dreams coven, now fully situated on the beautiful property that Arsinoe, a First Degree back then, found for us. I had felt guided by the Goddess throughout the whole awful process of trying to work with Sintana and then splitting from Ravenwood, and I still feel OakSpring is under Her care.

Shortly after our separation, I asked Lady Circe if she would do our fledgling coven the honor of becoming our acknowledged matriarch, allowing us to claim the Cercian tradition as our own.

In April of 2004, I stepped down from my position as HPS. Here is an excerpt of what I said to the membership:

From the beginning of OakSpring's establishment as a separate and singular Wiccan group, first at my house and later here, at our Church property in various stages of renovation and completion, we sought to define both ourselves and our mission; hash out policies and procedures, both spiritual and mundane; reconfigure areas of individual elder stewardship, and generally and specifically do what we needed to do to keep our group body and soul together. I am constantly and continually awed and inspired by the people with whom I circle. I feel I am the spiritual leader of a group that is strong, sturdy, and solid – properly grounded, magically adept, spiritually focused. Much of the progress of this Church has been spearheaded by its members.

At that time, we determined that the HPS and HP would serve only as long as it was beneficial to all; we dissolved the Elder Group as a governing body and formed the Coven Council as an advising body to the HPS and HP, and began the organizational restructuring of OakSpring, which continues as we grow and times change.

Throughout our 25 years as a coven, I believe we have stayed true to our mission of teaching and practicing the Old Ways; been good stewards of our sacred land; embraced diversity and expansion; explored innovative ways to practice our Craft; welcomed those who wish to circle with us, offering them ownership and a voice if they choose to stay; protected our members from those who sought to disrupt our egregor through discord and falsehood; fostered relationships with other pagan and Wiccan groups, and worked in the wider world to promote strength and understanding of the Old Laws and those who practice them.

Looking back on our birth Beltane and looking forward to our silver one, I am still moved by the grace and grit of our membership, our progress and our works in progress (revamping student education and working on the house and grounds for two), our lasting and new friendships, and, most importantly, our service to our Lord and Lady and the Old Ones through the practice of our Craft.

Merry Meet, everyone, and Blessed Be

Lady Devayana Augusta

Albion - My OakSpring Journey - A Walk Down Memory Lane

I Discover OakSpring:

I had been interested in the Craft for quite a while and was searching for a group to join. But this proved difficult and fruitless.

However, one day in early 2000, my wife saw an ad in Creative Loafing for a Ravenwood open house at The Phoenix and Dragon. It sounded promising, and I went. I recall Lady Ramona being the Ravenwood representative at this open house. I liked what I heard and reached out to her to attend the next intro class. Soon thereafter, I received a message from L. Ramona that "OakSpring has sprung!" Not sure what to make of this new development, I attended both a Ravenwood open house and an OakSpring open house. From that point the choice was easy—it was OakSpring for me!

Early days

My first Sabbat was Lammas 2000. The ritual was held at Lady Devayana's home in Kirkwood. I still remember the feeling of walking up to a home I knew would be full of witches, basically not knowing anyone, and not fully sure what to expect. But the evening was magical and, despite shyly sitting in the corner afterwards, I was hooked.

I continued to attend ritual and started taking classes at L. Devayana's house. My class cycle was the first all OakSpring class cycle. My classmates and I named ourselves "The Acorns." Some of my classmates included Ohdinwood, Aeolos, Drae Felis, Thea Phoenix, and Jasper Brie (who is now departed). Persons who were my class teachers when I was a student:

Work Sessions are my life!

In the early days I attended many and seemingly never-ending work sessions where I also got to know people better. My first work session was shortly after my intro class, and it focused on building our current storage shed. I recall being impressed that a first degree called Bear, while working of the shed roof, cut his hand with a saw and pooh-poohed it away with a comment to the effect of “I don’t have time to bleed.” I also recall thinking we would do better to tear down the home that sat on the property and start over from scratch—that’s how bad it was!

The property progressed in stages. First, rituals started taking place at the property, having created the circle space that we now call the “Moon Circle,” and the after-party would take place at Lady D’s home. Then, once the back deck was finished (an endeavor that sent me to the emergency room!) the after-parties took place on the deck. Finally, after many more work sessions, often multiple times per month, we eventually got the house into useable condition and it became the spiritual home we enjoy today. There was still much to do, but we were home!

Only you can prevent forest fires!

One thing all prospective initiates were required to do back in the day was attend an annual weekend pagan festival in North Georgia called “Autumnfest.” Students also were expected to help with work sessions at the Autumnfest property, which was called Starbridge. At one work session, people from another group decided it was a good idea to burn brush during drought conditions. The fire soon began to spread, and easily could have morphed into a huge wildfire. Bear, Moonwolf, and I ran to get shovels and furiously began digging a fire break around the blaze, while the people who started it inexplicably kept throwing more debris on the fire, to our great displeasure. The heat next to this fire was INTENSE and I gained a new appreciation for those brave men and women who fight forest fires! And here is a neat tip-- take a close look at the shirt L. Moonwolf has regularly worn to work sessions ever since. You will notice burn holes in the fabric from that day.

The magical “failed” garage sale

While still an acolyte, I suggested having a garage sale to raise money. I then learned the eternal life lesson that if you suggest something you are placed in charge of it.

The garage sale turned out to be quite an economic failure. It rained all day and traffic was light because we are in a cul de sac. Our High Priest L. Mikiel brought many items to sell from his work office, with strict instructions not to price them too cheaply, only to soon thereafter be seen happily parting with his items for comically low-ball amounts, sometimes as low as 50 cents! I don’t think we really raised any appreciable amount of money at this event. But the great gift of this endeavor was getting to know fellow acolyte Flidais Wren as we toiled away together running the garage sale. She was to become my primary ritual partner for many years, and we received our 1st degree, 2nd degree, and 3rd degree initiations together. We also were priest and priestess at the first ritual to use the stone altar in the Moon Circle. Which leads me to:

Gaining a New Appreciation for Stonehenge!

Before we had our stone altar, we used a large round tabletop that we would set on two rickety metal legs. We kept these in the shed and would set them up and put them back for each ritual. It was always a challenge to set it just right so it would not fall over or wobble too much.

L. Drae Felis (I believe) found some great slabs of sandstone and somehow had them delivered to the property. I don't know how they were laid where they were, just to the north of the Moon Circle, but I came to the work session to help erect them and create our new stone altar. L. Bear — very on brand LOL — had made exact, 3D templates for the support slabs of the altar from boards of insulation foam. We dug and dug, and measured, and dug again. Finally, after being satisfied at how the templates fit into the ground, the altar was deemed ready to install. I don't recall the support slabs being too hard to set in place. But the top — my gods — it was HEAVY. We placed two by fours under the slab and several of us lifted it from each side and walked it to the supports. I have never carried anything that heavy before or since. When we laid it on the support slabs it was perfectly level and we celebrated this “one and done” achievement! And no one was injured—an OakSpring miracle!

As noted, the first ritual with the new stone altar was a Moon ritual where L. Flidais Wren and I were priest and priestess together. Neither of us had led a wiccan ritual before, but I guess we were deemed ready. Between ourselves, we called this the “newbie moon.” Ha!

Walking the path of Initiation

In 2002, I received the Blessing of the Children and, on October 21, 2002, took the Craft name “Ash.” On July 12, 2003, approximately three years after I started classes, L. Devayana Augusta and L. Mikiel initiated me to the first degree. Also initiated with me were Flidais Wren, Thea Phoenix, and Moonwolf, with Sophia receiving her elevation to Second Degree. Needless to say, it was a magical night.

Life as a first degree was exciting, and I continued to seek as much knowledge as I could. My primary avenue for learning was obtaining every book I could find on witchcraft and the occult in general. I also developed a real interest in Craft history. I remember working with Joshua and L. Mikiel on the true history of Wicca, as Mikiel also was very interested in separating fact from fiction regarding the origin of the Craft. Joshua also (I believe) started a periodic book group that we called “The Book Worms.” The world, as they say, was my oyster and I have many fond memories of these times — learning, sharing, and generally progressing with my fellow firsts. Sometimes we would meet on our own at the house to practice the Craft. On one occasion we would practice raising energy and shielding. On another, some high magic was attempted by those interested in such things. I also grew to be closer friends with my fellow firsts, as well as with a new force that was awakening at OakSpring —

The Pod visits the Wizard

Three students had formed a strong bond, and soon became known as “the Pod”. These students were Areli Rowan, Oak, and Matthaios Theodoros. It was a joy watching them progress together. The culmination of their progress as students was a wonderful ritual they created together called “The Wizard of OSC,” and I had the honor of playing the Cowardly Lion in this ritual. As one can deduce, it was based on the Wizard of Oz. This Pod was inspiring and magical together. They soon became a regular part of our merry little group of initiates, and little did I suspect what a huge role one member of the Pod would later play in my life...

Moving on up, being a perpetual summoner, and the Bale Fire Club

I received my 2nd degree elevation the evening of July 8, 2006, from Lady Aurora Twilight and Lord Derwdrych — again almost exactly three years after being initiated. I seemed to be on the 3-year plan! Elevated with me that night were fellow Firsts Flidais Wren and Moonwolf with Kai, Euniculus, and Aradiah Benevento initiated as 1st degrees.

As a Second, I was frequently tapped to be ritual summoner. I also took my first turn at the wheel as Coven Summoner under L. Bear, who became High Priest on Samhain of 2007. I remember these days following my first-degree initiation and throughout my time as a second degree very fondly. I felt at home in the group, felt myself to be ritually competent, and had developed many friends.

But perhaps my very favorite memories of these days are the times we would simply hang out around the bale fire after ritual well into the wee hours of the morning. The usual suspects in this endeavor were me, Aeolos, Joshua, Phoenix, Sophia, Flidais Wren, and members of the Pod, with others periodically joining. Sometimes, we would do this until 2 or 3 in the morning—just chatting, dreaming, and learning from each other. I also remember once—perhaps against our better judgment—going into the house late at night, casting a salt circle around us, and trying commune with the spirits through a Ouija board! You’ve got to create a little mischief as a witch! Am I wrong?

The final frontier and the greatest dream

On September 17, 2011, 5 years after receiving my second, L. Bear and L. Arsinoe elevated me to the 3rd degree, along with my littermates L. Flidais Wren and L. Moonwolf. I was now a “craft elder.”

On October 28, 2017, I became High Priest—something I never aspired to or envisioned happening. But the Goddess moves in mysterious ways, and it has been one of my life’s great honors, as is standing next to Lady Rowan in circle and counting her as one of my greatest friends. I also have wonderful memories of the many rituals, wiccanings, handfasting’s, initiations, and elevations that we have had the pleasure to take part in as High Priest and High Priestess. It has been quite a ride!

Most of you know the story from here. We've had our ups and downs, which is to be expected, including Covid. But one thing never changed—my love for OakSpring and my optimism for its future. One day, in the hopefully not too distant, future, L. Rowan and I will hand the leadership of the coven to a new High Priest and High Priestess, and a new generation of witches will lead, guide, and protect OakSpring while I enjoy my dotage as a “HP Emeritus” by telling young witches about “the old days” and how we walked through the snow, uphill – both ways — to make OS what it is today.

But until that day, I will leave you with one final, special memory:

It was a spring evening, seemingly like any other. But during this particular year, we were forced to cancel our 20th anniversary Beltane gathering due to a new virus called Covid. L. Rowan and I didn't know what would happen in the future, and we feared for OS and its members. But one thing we resolved to do was to not give up. And as it was now the Goddess half of the year, I needed to turn over the coven sword to Lady Rowan.

So, on this spring evening, with no one as our witness except the trees, the sky, and the Lord and the Lady, we met at the Covenstead, entered the Moon Circle together, and exchanged the coven sword “from hand to hand, from priest to priestess, from woman to man” as tradition dictates. It was simple and solemn and extremely powerful. It is a moment I will never forget.

The rest, as they say, is history:

History? Perhaps I should say “adventure!” Or “magical.” Possibly “blessed!” Whatever word we choose, OakSpring is and will remain my spiritual home and a huge part of my life, and I look forward to it thriving for many years to come!

Bill Sutton – Lord Derwdrych - OakSpring Anniversary Memories

25 years sure goes by quickly...

I remember all the new OakSpring circle participants in Lady Devayana's back yard, wearing their white robes that meant the start of a new era as well as the start of the Goddess' reign. It was a magical night that gave us a chance to look forward instead of back, though we were a long way from completing the foundations that would support the amazing coven and covenstead we have today.

Before moving into the OakSpring house and grounds we practically lived at Lady Devayana's, with classes and meetings as well as rituals being held there until we were able to at least do Sabbats at the Friends meeting space (DMH – Lord Derwdrych reminds me that OakSpring also hosted rituals in the lower level of Lord Herme split level home.). When we weren't at Lady D's we were working at the property. I remember when Lord Gwydion gleefully took the rented Bobcat out to level the space that would become the circle. I remember tearing down the old shed and clearing away all the debris so that we would have a clear path, and oh, boy, does my back remember building the retaining wall and hauling in and placing the altar slabs. I remember the Feminine Destructo Energy involved in tearing out the inside walls during the remodel, and I remember Lord Bear's favorite raccoons.

I remember so many late nights after Sabbat rituals. I remember playing music in the corner of the house - I especially remember Lord Loaghrian singing "Lady" soon after he was accepted into OakSpring.

I remember the first time we all chanted the OakSpring chant, in the circle we built with our own hands.

Timing has prevented Lady AT and I from returning more than a few times since our Grand Adventure North, and our failure to guess which weekend would be the 25th Anniversary Beltane before scheduling a major music event a few years ago prevents us from being there now. We miss all of you with whom we've shared a circle or a class or a spiritual moment elbow-deep in the dirt of the OakSpring Covenstead, and we hope someday to meet all of you who've come along since we left. We love all of you dearly, and know that OakSpring continues in the hands of some of the finest practitioners of the Old Religion in the world.

Brightest of blessings,

Lord Derwdrych

Marco Guerroro – Eros

I was flipping through the Gospel of Aradia. Lady D asked me if I knew how to read Italian, (as the book is rooted in Italian with craft). I said eagerly, "Yes, I'm fluent in the language. Wanna see?" At which point I began to read the spells aloud! Lady D, not expecting me to be as fluent as I had said, took the book out of my hand in the middle of me reciting a spell, and she goes, "Now don't you go reading and summoning things you're not familiar with and putting me in a position where I have to start casting protective circles all over the place!"

Ken Sosebee – Lord Moonwolf

First Time

I was brought to OakSpring by Lady Devayana on the January Full Moon in 2002. It was my first experience with any type of Pagan or Wiccan ritual

Upon arrival Lady D went into the house to take care of some responsibilities. I was left to my own devices.

I almost immediately noted three women dressed for cold weather in black cloaks, robes, and headgear of pointed hats. They were huddled close together in hushed conversation.

They conjured up all the negative images of witches from my consciousness including those purported by the Brothers Grimm, William Shakespeare, and Walt Disney.

I panicked.

I almost bolted.

But I calmed myself enough to realize that even though I had only known Lady Devayana for about a month. I knew her well enough to know she would not be involved in anything evil..

I stayed.

I'm still here.

- Lord Moonwolf Augustus

Sonja Cox – Sophia

OakSpring has been my spiritual home and family since 2001, the most important, continuous and meaningful presence in my life.

I remember working on the initial renovations of the house, walking across planks to get in the back door before the deck was built, and gathering at Lady Devayana's house for post-ritual activities and classes before the house was ready for gatherings.

I remember so many important ritual occasions over the years: my Second and Third Degree elevations, serving as a ritual priestess for moons, sabbats, and one funeral, and attending Handfastings, Wiccanings, Cronings, Coming of Age rites, Blessings of the Children, and many, many initiations and elevations.

I've taught some classes, trained some good ritualists, and learned so much more than I ever taught all along the way.

I've spent many years maturing along my own spiritual path, with all the struggle and striving that comes with growth, and OakSpring has served as a safe place for me to learn, grow and belong, and has also allowed me time and space for sabbaticals when I needed them or life circumstances took me geographically farther away for a while.

It has always been a home I could return to, steady and solid. My Chosen Family of beloved Brothers and Sisters. A steadfast sanctuary of the Craft of the Wise, preserving the traditions and teachings for multiple generations, and keeping the doors open for new seekers. We are all so lucky to have such a spiritual home.

Midsummer – First Ritual At OakSpring – Bear’s Memory

Saturday night was Midsummer. And Artorius and Wendy's handfasting. We actually did it out at the property. First ritual at the property. And dang was the energy not amazing. We'd been working so hard, for so long. Circle building was sort of funky, new circle, new space, but we did pretty well, and everyone was so gassed. We had to do a lot of settling and grounding before we even made the attempt.

The ritual went well, and the wedding, and afterwards we all headed over to Devayana's for after sabbat party. The OakSpring house has no electricity yet, nor flush toilets.

We didn't leave Devayana's until almost 2a. Because of the theft of some plants at the curb at OakSpring that Twilight had put in, Devayana asked us to swing by the property to check on it real quick. When we arrived I left Little Bear and Arsinoe in the car and went out to the circle. It was very nice, very peaceful in the star light. I did a quick protection spell and we headed home.

That's such a needy circle, so dry and earnest after being neglected for so long. It's going to take a lot to fill that hole.

The flow of circle building and ritual followed almost exactly the flow of energy surrounding the split and the new property over the last year. Starting off with lots of excitement, then some low points. Flare ups of energy along the way. More low points. And a final flare of energy toward the end.

It's going to be neat working out there and I'm priest for Lammas.

I talked to Gwydion yesterday and he reminded me of how we'd worked out there last fall and this winter and spring in almost freezing temperatures, rain, sleet, mud, and manure making that circle space level, then hauling sand, and top soil, and finally, only a month ago, putting down the sod. And dang didn't that sod feel good under our bare feet Saturday night.
